

Information regarding the validity of your visa and the requirement for medical travel insurance.

The Embassy will normally add an additional 15 days to the period of validity of your visa (note that this does not entitle you to an additional 15 days in the Schengen-area). This period is meant to accommodate unplanned and unforeseen postponement of your departure from India. It is important to note that the medical travel insurance still must cover all your days in the Schengen-area, including the days of travel. Therefore it is recommended that your insurance should state the number of days covered from the start of your journey, not specific dates.
